Texas Rural Vote Indicates 225,000 Majority

Large Total for Coolidge is Early Indication coming in, that Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson probably will receive a total majority of about 225,000 votes over Dr. George C. Butte, Republican, for Governor. Of a total of about 700,000 votes cast, 218,000 have been counted, giving Mrs. Ferguson a lead of 62,000 votes, according to unofficial returns. The lead which Butte started with by returns from the larger cities was overcome quickly by the rural returns.

With the positive assurance that whatever might be the outcome of the election, there would be chosen either a woman or a Republican as Governor of Texas, far more than ordinary interest was attached to the casting of ballots in this State today. This interest was intensified by the prominence of the Ku Kux Klan issue in the campaign and it caused an outpouring of people at the polls. Perfect weather prevailed all over the State and this was a factor in favor of Mrs. Ferguson. Democratic nomines as it meant passable roads for the farmer to travel to the precinct voting boxes. The early returns showed that Mrs. Ferguson's principal strength was interested.

CITY COUNT SLOW

The count in the larger cities progresses slowly. It shows that Dr. George O. Butte, the Republican candidate for Governor, was running well ahead of Mrs. Ferguson in Dallas, Austin. Houston, Beaumont and others of the larger cities. It was indicated by these early and far from complete returns, that Butte would come out of the larger cities in the lead of Mrs. Ferguson. Butte also was running ahead of Mrs. Ferguson in a number of populous counties of North Texas and making a fine showing in parts of Central Texas. The rural districts, however, were piling up in the early count an aimost solid vote for Mrs. Ferguson. According to the returns she swept East Texas and the territory south of San Antonio and more than broke even with Butte in other rural districts. It is practically conceded by the Republican leaders that if the estimate of votes polled is correct Mrs. Ferguson's election by the usual big Democratic majority is assured. The leaders contend, however, that the total vote was not more than 600.000 and that this means that Butte has a chance of winning.

KIAN FOR BUTTE

KLAN FOR BUTTE

KLAN FOR BUTTE

The Ku Klux strongholds gave a surprisingly large vote for Butte. It is apparent that he received the buik of the Klan vote. Party lines were largely lost sight of and thousands of veteran Democrats today cast their first vote for a Republican candidate for office. The election marked the greatest political evolution that ever took place in Texas.

Fractically all of the German vote, more than 30,000 in number, which is nominally Republican, was given Mrs. Ferguson because of the Klan issue. The same is true of the negro vote, which went solid for the woman candidate.

The heavy Republican vote had the effect of carrying with it many thousand votes for Coolidge. It is apparent, however, that Davis will receive almost the usual old-time Democratic majority, due to the extraordinarily large vote that was polied.

extraordinarily large vote that was polled.

George C. Butte, Republican candidate for Governor, tonight refused to concede the election of Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, Democrat, in dace of her substantial lead. He declared that many ballots had been illegally thrown out and that he would take the lead when these were properly counted.

Mrs. Depew accompanied him to the polling-place.

So strong was the Coolidge tide that at 9:30 p.m., Eastern standard time, the New York World, which had supported Davis, conceded the election of Coolidge.

At the same time the World claimed New York State for Gov. AI E. Smith, despite a tremendous lead for his Republican opponent. Theodore Roosevelt in up-State countles. In New York City Smith was leading Roosevelt two to one.

the next Conress. Control of the House by regular Republicans seems assured on the basis of incomplete returns.

The regular Republicans probably in the regular Republicans probably have come within two or three votes of actual control of the Senate. The radical group appears to retain the balance of-power but in view of the demonstration of nation-wide Coolidge sentiment, some of the insurgent Senators may find it advisable to swing over to the support of the administration.

Organization of both houses by the Republicans is a certainty unless the radicals of the majority party in the Senate kick over the traces on committee assignments. The radicals still will be in a position to make trouble on matters of legislation but the situation may look favorable enough from an administration standpoint to justify President Coolidge in calling a special session soon affer March 4 to consider further tax reduction and other questions which may be held of pressing importance.

The Coolidge landside in the East swept into offices Republican lessed, which has been vacant since the despit of Senator Colt, Republican loss in Delaware where Senator Ball, Republican had to receive renomination, but former Senator Du Pont, Republican Republicans had elected Senator Edge, Republican, New Jersey. There were indications that the Republicans had elected Senator Senator Colege, Republican, New Jersey, Won in a hard fight over Frederick W. Donnelly, Democratic connecte.

The Republicans were running ahead in Colorado, where seats have been held by one Republican and one Democrat.

The surprisingly good showing made by Coolidge in Minnesota indicated a possible Republican gain in Minnesota and the retirement of Senator Magnus Johnson, radical Farmer-Laberite.

The radicals found the going rougher than they expected. Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, one of the La Follette group whose re-election had been conceded, led Daniel F. Steck, Democratic nomines but by only a narrow margines in the selection of the La Follette Republican seeking re-election, fared better and finished with a comfortable majority.

The Republicans failed in their attempt to capture the border States of Tennessee and Kentucky.

L. D. Tyson, Democratic nomines, won handsomely over H. B. Lindsay, the Republican candidate in Tennessee. Senator Stanley, Democrat, Kentucky, had a hard battle but managed to win over Fred M. Sackett, Republican nomines, in Kentucky.

was beaten by Fletcher Hale, and Representative Casey, vennayivania, whose successful opponent was E. N. Carpenter.

Indications are that there may be fifty-two or fifty-three Republicans in the Senate instead of fifty-one as at present. Forty-nine constitute a majority. Of the Republicans five are counted as consistent La Follette men, while two or three others are in the uncertain class. There will be from forty to forty-two Democrats and one or two Farmer-Labor members.

The incomplete returns showed a nominal Republican majority in the House definitely elected. A majority requires 213 of the 425 members. It seemed a certainty that final figures would show more than 235 Republicans. With this total the regular Republicans would barely contro after eliminating about fifteen La Follette supporters. In view of the heavy Coolidge vote it was considered entirely likely that the Republican total might run close to 256. On the basis of partial returns, 155 Democrats were definitely elected, together with at least two Farmer-Labor members and one or more Socialists.

OPPROBRIOUS TERM

In this connection, Mr. Ballard asserts that the power executives object to the term of "super power systems" as applied to the interconnection of transmission lines. The term is migleading, he says and is exceedingly unfortunate because of the connotation to many people of "gigantic trusts" organized to control electric energy and fix exceptiant rates. The sole purpose of co-operative power distribution is to efficiently distribute hydro-electric energy as great a distance as possible, and at rates low enough to insure mass production at at minimum cost.

possible, and at rates low enough to insure mass production at at minimum cost.

Responsible authorities agreethat there is more than $5,000,000 of horsepower of water available in the United States, and of this amount over $6,000,000 of horsepower is now being generated by steam. To produce this power approximately $50,000,000 of horsepower is now being generated by steam. To produce this power approximately $50,000,000 of conductive approximately $50,000,000 of conductive and light for elegifly-four years; and here the conservationists clinch their most potent argument for linking inhe-hydro-electric systems to save coal.

Among the recent consolidations effected in the industry have been the American Superpower Corporation, the Standard Power and Light Corporation, under the management of H. M. Byllesby & Co., and the new $100,000,000 of could the new $100,000,

ELECTRICAL BUSINESSIS IMPROVING

Power Appliance Sales on Coast Expected to Gain Because of Rains

the power shortage in Southern California is in sight and the utilities in the San Francisco Bay region are well past the crisis. The way is now paved for a vigorous holiday campaign on electrical appliances and indications are that business will be good, although confined to the last month of the season, as Electrical World, New York, views the situation. Christmass goods have started to move in the Puget Sound territory and indications are that trade will be good. Utility buying of power plant and other equipment is not expected to be active before late in January of next year.

Throughout the country present sales are classed by electrical manufacturers as good, with central stations actively purchasing auxiliary power apparatus, and in addition several good orders are in view. Many negotiations are under way with industrial plants, but there is little closing of contracts, although it is evident that most of the projects covered by these negotiations must eventually sound business policies will be affected.

The security for the loan includes a first closed mortgage on business property owned in fee, in the heart of San Bernardino, now being improved with the six-story

All furniture and equipment in the hotel, and all other property, real or personal, which the company now owns or may hereafter acquire, are also covered by the mortgage.

On a conservative estimate, the net income from the building will be $44,000 per annum, a sum equal to over four and one-half times the greatest annual charge for interest and principal combined on this bond issue.

In addition to these three su-perlative records, a number of other remarkable performances along this line have been achieved by operators who have had to con-tend with the deep fields of the Los Angeles Basin.

The record for weight of casing set is held by the Superior Oil Company. This organization, head-

Set is held by the Superior Oil Company. This organization, headed by William Keck, reputed one of the most successful drilling executives in the business, set $85 feet of eleven-inch casing, weighing fifty-four pounds a foot in its Moreland wildcat well near Compton, last February. The total weight of this string of casing was 104 tons, which eclipses by about nine tons the nearest competitor.

SUCCESSFUL JOB

The Superior effected a successful cement job in setting this record-breaking strip of pipe, but has had less success in completing the well, which however, has not yet been abandoned. After setting the eleven-inch at 3859 feet, the hole was drilled to 4774 feet, but was plugged back to the shoe of the eleven-inch where it is now standing. Superior officials still expect to make a well of the Moreland, when a crew is available from the company's present drilling operations. Another casing record held by the Superior is the longest string of eight-inch casing in the Signal Hill field. In the Swaffield No. 1 the Superior set 5280 feet of eight-inch casing, part of which was perforated pipe.

The Shell Company claims the feet of 6 1-4-inch and 5 3-16-inch casing was set, the total weight of the string being about seventy tons. The string comprised 4049 feet of 6 1-4-inch casing, weighing iwenty-six pounds per foot, and 1839 feet of 6 3-16-inch casing, weighing seventeen pounds per foot. This casing was set by a straight cement job.

of the entire string being about minety tons.

Another remarkable achievement of the Shell, which may also be a world record is its easing record in the Patton-Wilson No. 3 in the Bignai Hill field. In this well 4190 feet of ten-inch casing were set, running forty-five pounds to the foot, total weight being about ainety-five tons.

The Southwest Petroleum Corporation claims the casing record for Kern county fields in its ill-fated biabler No. 1. In this well 4530 feet of specially made 8 1-4 inch easing, weighing forty-three pounds per foot was set, the total weight being ninety-seven tons, the heaviest ever set in the Kern fields.

minety-five tons.

The Southwest Petroleum Corporation claims the casing record for Kern county fields in its ill-fated Stabler No 1. In this well 4530 feet of specially made 3 1-4 inch casing, weighing forty-three pounds per foot was set, the total weight being minety-seven tons, the heaviest ever set in the Kern fields.

STRESS TOO GREAT

Later the stress proved too great for the pipe, and it collapsed at 2500 feet, just as the Southwestern Railre manager for the pipe, and it collapsed at 2500 feet, just as the Southwestern was preparing to place the well on preduction

Among the recent feats in setting casing, is the achievement of E. J. Miley in his Athens No. 1. at Rosecrans. Miley set 3808 feet of ten-inch casing, weighing a total of eighty-six tons in this well.

The success of these casing operations is the more remarkable when it is considered that the average elevators are not designed to. support more than ninety tons. Considerable of the weight is taken off the elevators during the process of running the pipe, by floating it in. The danger of the proposition comes later when air-bubbles or other weaknesses in the pipe cause it to surrender to the terrific stress, and because of its weight it is almost impossible to extract it.

Tells How She Did it With a Home-Made Remedy

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, and look twenty years younger with this film-ple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add home. To half a pint of water add I ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and 4 ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—[Advertisement.

THIS page is as tedious to read as it sometimes is to write, I feel sorry for the who peruse it-

There are no interesting people coming into the movies that I can find.

There are a few interesting pictures-and they all

Rape to Rape

We might as well be frank about it: The pictures that are selling and doing big business are, many instances, made of smut. producers have to come just as near to the ragged edge as they can without being

I know a famous free - lance scenario writer who says he is going to have a trade slogan like all the big soap manufacturers.

His selling slogan is

"Scenarios that romp from rape to rape.

In the circumstances, you can't blame the producers. With an almost pathetic hopefulness, they put on the best pictures that the public will accept.

Even the best people will not support the best pictures.

When the National Federation of Women's Clubs When the National Federation of Women's Clubs was in session in Los Angeles, the local committee were anxious that the movie houses should put on something worthy of the movie industry.

The managers of Loew's State Theater selected "Boy of Mine." which is unquestionably the finest picture of the kind ever made.

The Women's Federation indorsed it in glowing

And it turned out to be the worst flop in the history of that theater.

The Women's Federation delegates ignored "Boy of Mine," but stood in line at the box office to see Gloria Swanson in "Manhandled," which was a rival

In this picture, Gloria narrowly escaped being raped in every reel; in one especially peppy reel, she escaped being raped three times.

"Abraham Lincoln"

A very significant incident happened, the other day, while I was standing in the lobby of the Criterion Theater.

The picture then being shown at the theater was braham Lincoln," which is one of the finest pictures ever made.

A woman and her daughter came along and asked for the manager. The woman was the wife of a well-known exhibitor in the wind of Middle West. She accepted, with keen interest, the invitation of the manager to see the picture. She said she had heard so much about it; had heard it was the finest picture

Her flapper daugh-ter vetoed the proposi-tion with force and violence.

"Nothing doing," she said with finality. "I don' wanna see 'Aoraham Lincoln.' I want to see that wild party in 'The Wine of Youth.'"

And so they went away again.

There is this much to be said about the girl who didn't want to see "Abraham Lincoln":

Just as "Boy of Mine" was a failure because of the mushy, sickish "mother-love" stories that preceded it.

stories that preceded it, just so "Abraham Lincoln" suffered from the stupid. tame, mawkish, "100 per cent American" pictures that flooded the country during the war and immediately thereafter. To succeed, "Abraham Lincoln" had to overcome the handicap of these dreadful "propaganda" pictures which added to the horrors of the World War.

Those imbecilic pictures of our "four-minute-speaker" days were so atrociously bad that to label any picture in the world "patriotic" will kill it deader than a door

Tony Moreno

Tony Moreno is going back to Spain to see his nother and his native land.

If the fans were all like me, Senor Moreno and Ramon Novarro would be at the top of the list.

Tony is not only a good actor, but the most charming of gentlemen. If his domestic ship should be wrecked on the rocks, my last ideal would be gone.

A True Fairy Story

Going back to his old home in Spain will, for Mr. Moreno, be returning to the scene of one of the strangest real-life stories I have ever heard of.

When he was a little boy. Tony's mother was very or. He was working as a baker's boy.

One day when he was in a public park, two elderly ntlemen—tourists, quite obviously—asked him his entlemen

He replied with the stately courtesy that he had been taught at home. To their question he answere "Antonio Moreno, Senors—to serve you and

"Antonio Moreno, Senors—to serve you and God."
They were two rich old New York bachelors. With his mother's permission, they took the little Spanish boy a tour throughout Spain.

When they went back to New York, they took little ony along. At their expense he was educated in the mily of some fine old New England people. Now that Senor Antonio rides along on the crest of the wave, with fame and fortune, he still has the same grave, thoughtful courtesy.

Louise Glaum

Louise Glaum is coming back to the screen-just as Alice Joyce fitfully threatening to leave it.

Miss Glaum was formerly one of the best of the screen "vamps" Like Alice Joyce, she left the screen screen "vamps" Like Alice Joyce, she left the screen to make a home; but her attempt was not a domestic

Corinne Comes Back

Corinne Griffith is coming back from the East, thoroughly disillusioned with New York as a place to make Minnie Falls From Grace

On the other hand, First National has sent two e tire producing units across the continent to New York. It looked like the hegira of a nation.

It somed like the negira of a nation.

I would like to have all the money they will waste before they find out what Miss Griffith found out.

Pictures will always be made in Hollywood because they have always been made here. The incidental machinery for production has been built up here. If you want a stage coach, a bucking horse or a trained canary, it is at hand.

A Talented Foreigner

The most interesting director who has struck Hofly-ood for some time is Svend Gade.

He is a Dane who is known in Europe as one of the greatest of all scenic artists.

In the first instance, he came over here to design the sets for Mary Pickford's "Rosita." He went back to Europe, but returned to Hollywood a few months ago

York critics tore the pages of the dictionaries trying to flopped to the ground.

find words to express their admiration for a picture he made some years ago with Asta Neilson as Hamlet. It was not Shakespeare's "Hamlet." It was based upon the original Dan-ish legend from which Shakespeare got his play.

In it he followed the unique theory advanced by a famous American critic that Hamlet was a woman: A girl born into the family of a king at a critical time when politics demanded that he should have a son.

Mary Philbin's Future

Gade says that Mary Philbin, although lacking in training, is the third best actress he has ever seen.

Duse, of course, was the finest artiste this generation has known. Next came Asta Neilson, a Danish actress; and then little Mary.

The great handicap that stands between Mary Philbin and one of the greatest careers of screen history is her health. She is a very delicate child.

The Chivalrous Horse

Marie Mosquini told me a very interesting story the other day about her experiences working with Hal Roach's wild horse, Casey Jones, whose screen name is Rev.

Rex is a black stallion with a temper like a dyspeptic Bolshevist. Roach—appropriately enough—bought him from a Colorado reform school.

Casey Jones considers it a lost day if he doesn't sanage to trample some one to death or kick them into Kingdom Come.

They told Marie that it meant a certain big part for her if she had the nerve to act with the black stallion.
"I thought it over for a few days," said Marie,

"I thought it over for a rew days, said ividing,
"and decided to take a chance.

"I made up my mind that I would adopt the same tactics with Casey Jones that I would with a very wicked man. I would tell him that I regarded him as my protector.

"The first day I went out into the lot, I will have to confess that Casey-didn't act much like the protector of a lone working girl. He laid back his ears and came at me with a scream that fairly froze my blood.

"It was too late to back out; I just stood perfectly still and said to him: 'All right, Casey; here I am. You're a big strong horse; you will have to take care of me.'

"Casey stopped and came up and looked me over.
From that day to this I have never had the slightest trouble with him."

The fact that Marie had a little Spanish grandmother who was a very famous and daring horsewoman may have had something to do with it, however.

Minnie, the elephant who kicked up a fracas at Uni-ersal City the other day, thereby ruined a great repu-ation. Minnie is the most adored of all actor animals. She is a sweet old lady.
It was Minnie who saved Madge Bellamy from death a year or so ago.

Miss Bellamy, then a comparative newcomer in pictures, was playing the lead in a circus melodrama.

In one of the scenes she had to lie down between Minnie's front legs.

It happened that a trainer employed in the pictures had looked upon too much bootleg whisky.

To the horror of the spectators, he gave Minnie the order to lie down, a proceeding which, of course, would have crushed Miss Bellamy to death.

At the order Minnie squirmed and trumpeted. She was bewildered as to what she should do.

As she hesitated the cruel elephant hook gouged into her ear.

That flapper bedroom is the most impudent gay thing you ever saw, a riot of cleverly-blended colors, lovely piquant draperies, cheeky-looking fur-niture that almost dances.

And so on. This is the house that Charlie built. But at present it is occupied only by Charile—and Kono, the faithful, silent, smooth Japanese body-guard, the incorruptible Kono, over whose dead body alone can anyone see Charlie who Charlie does not want to

Who is the Wendy who will some day share this wondrous home that Charlie has built so thrillingly? Char-lie talks about his dream children, even saily considers where he shall build the nursery, and explains that he prefers girls because they usually favor papa, and waxes judicial about their proper upbringing; but he never mentions a dream bride.

Tragedy Breeds Comedy

I coaxed Charlie into talking about his pictures. He has made a hard and fast contract with himself to make four more pictures, of which the Alaskan one on which he is now working is the first. Every one of them is to evolve a great idea, some poignant human condition and emotion. In the Alaskan one, for instance, a howling comedy built upon stark and wretched tragedy, the idea is the triumph of misery over smug well-being.

The poor, little frightened, under-sized, ill-nourished being in the gold rush, who always misses the luck, always draws the misery, whose hopes and vibrant joys are built upon false loves and cruel lies, who is so used to misery that it no longer holds any terrors for him—this tragic little being, in the last and final disasters en-compassing all slike, rises the king of them all-king in his own wretched, pitiable kingdom, where only he is lord.

"Il Pagliacci" will probably be the next. After that, who knows? No more exclusive directing, anyway—Charlie will be in them all himself.

But he smiles confidently as he recalls that "The Woman of Paris" is gradually, slowly making good. It will net him at least $250,000. And it was good. He knows it was good. good. He knows it was good.

Lita the Lucky

"Tell me about this new leading lady of yours," I asked. "I don't think I have even seen her picture."

Charlie's eyes sparkled. "No, she was only a little angel in 'The Kid,' he grins. "But it is quite amusing, she gets wads of fan mail. I read it all.

"Thousands of people have written telling her how they have seen her in every role she has played and how wonderful she was—there's a bit of queer human psychology for you.

But here was a subject Charlic ould expatiate upon with unalloyed enthusiasm-Lita Grey, his little 17year-old leading lady.

"She's so natural, so boyish, so ut-terly frank. Much more like a boy in some ways—throws a cricket ball just like a boy. Absolutely devoid of fem-inine artifices—no smirks and coy, calculating glances, no artificial sex lures—and never been to a luxurious gilded cafe in her life. No taste that way at

"She loves the country and outdoor games, can't see anything in gilded, jaded crowds—knows instinctively how dull and stupid they are.

"And nothing awes her. Mary Picktord or Elinor Glyn or the cameraman, it's all the same to her. If she likes them she is quite likely to put her arm around them and give them a squeeze (the cameraman approves of that,) and if she doesn't, or they don't like her, she is as pleasantly indifferent as a healthy child.

"I think," added Charlie, "people are getting thoroughly sick of sex appeal. I know I am. This boyish type of girl is the modern girl, infinitely more attractive than the everlasting sex-appeal variety.

"Lita is comfortable, frank comrade ship itself. She is the quintessence of this boyish modern girl—devoid of all the sly, silly feminine tricks and artificial lures.

"She comes from a good Spanish family—they have money, too. I found her on the street, a jolly kid of 14, bossing the crowd. Told my man to find out about her and see her parents—knew I could use her to advantage some way.

"That small part in "The Kid' wasn't much, but I could study her, and she has been developing wonderfully. Fearless, attractive child. The new type, the best type. ..."

And so Charlie, in the midst of building his dream house for his dream children, and parchance a wasnerse.

It is at this juncture that the platitudinous subtities are flashed. The old man's impassioned speech before the dumbfounded parents was doubtless within bounds in the story, but in the film it seemed hollow and inapropos. As it is, he denounces them at considerable length, showing them the error of their ways in the matter of their son's upbringing. Of course, after this son's upbringing. Of course, after this

Mary Philbin presents an appearance distinctive in "The Phantom of the Opera" and reveals perhaps a greater emotional quality than before.

ORE thrills! Plenty of them this time!

At any rate, we have good ground for anticipating that "The Phantom of the Opera" will be one of the biggest mystery melodramas ever made—indeed, a sort of sublimated mystery play with subterranean settings to cast a spell of sorcery over the imagination, and groping fingers and clutching hands to send a chill up and down the spine.

Lon Chaney plays the "Phantom," so those who know him (and who does not!) from his performances in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and a dozen other pictures can rouse a good share of anticipation for the overwhelming grewsome. He is even trying to keep the impression conjured by his make-up a secret so that it will add to the thrill; but it may be mentioned the real kick, this time, is his facial resemblance to a death's head, a veritable mask of sepulchral horror.

Mary Philbin, too, has a great role in the Rupert Julian film, and has apparently entered a realm of maturer poise.

Misguided parents, a son with too much money and leisure, and the daughter of a poor but honest ex-bar-keeper, comprise the quartet of principal characters in this interesting photoplay of modern American social life. It has been given good treatment, both as to continuity and direction, and, excepting for an overdose of "preachiness" at the close, is an entertaining feature of the first order.

mother, and Jack Mulhall plays the son. All suffer from headaches—a ginny aftermath—and each is afflicted with amusing ennui.

The reason for this condition becomes apparent when they are next shown at one of their nightly parties. The parents' idea is to keep the son on the straight and narrow path by joining him in his pleasures. To this end they turn their home into a rendezvous for devotees of the pepful life, end they turn their home into a ren-dezvous for devotees of the pepful life, and add zest to the arrangement by pairing off with a couple of social han-gers-on. The son is infatuated with a little blonde flapper, who supports three bootleggers by her consumption of liquor. Altogether, it is a gay and ir-responsible crowd that frequents the Herrington house.

In strong contrast to all this is the soft-drink emporium conducted by a former saloonkeeper. His daughter, portrayed by May McAvoy, revives her schooltime friendship with the Herrington scion, and despite the father's objections as rington scion, and despite the father's objections a romance springs up between the pair. There follows a period of conflict, during which the girl strives to make the youth give up his dissolute friends, but although his promises are readily forthcoming, the next night finds him up to his neck, so to speak, in a necking party.

During these sequences Mr. Mulhali's performance, as the more or less con-performance, as the more or less con-tinually inebriated son is mildly hu-morous. His escapades are many and his apparent lack of will power well depicted. Miss McAvoy is ever the sympathetic heroine and not a few of her scenes have a compelling poignancy.

A succession of small climaxes leads up to the turning point of the story. This comes after word of the son's marriage to the girl is announced to the Herringtons. They are disconcerted, even stupefied, over the news, but after a brief discussion agree to "accept" the bride. The girl's father, however, feels differently about the the Herringtons.

Willard Louis actually built this fish pond himself, and his little daughter evidently delights in the magic flash of the goldfish that lurk in its depths.

O QUESTION about it now a-tall! The film stars have succumbed to the attractions of California.

When you behold so dignified an idol as Antonio Morence genially engaged in sprinkling the flowers and grass plots (as well as the great big boulders!) around his Crestmont manion, all arguments are ended about transferring the film activities to New York.

A few of the players are really horticultural experts. Notably, the versatile Milton Sills. He has prizes to prove his successful accomplishments along this line that he has won at flower shows, and he could no doubt easily essay to give a lecture on botany if the occasion demanded.

The main fact is, though, that the picture folk have some of the most alluring gardens in all of Southern California. Very often these are arranged on the most strictly elaborate fashion by some landscape artist and expert. Stars, of course, are accustomed through their professional work to have somebody else supply the settings and the backgrounds for their personalities. Then develops a slight firtation with the wife, who craves a little more attention than with the wife, who craves a little more attention than she has been receiving in her own household. Finally, the flirtation turns into a real love affair, divorce impends and is carried through and the plot goes as far as the preparations for the second wedding.

The final scene is literally a film visualization of the old idea once embodied in a popular song, "Waiting at the Church." The picturization of domestic troubles, trials and misunderstandings, with a finally joyous outcome, seems to take a lead among types of productions this season. It appears especially welcome if it treats these intimacies in a clever and humorous manner.

John Stahl, the director, has achieved new prominence because of his adept style in dealing with this sort of story. "Why Men Leave Home" was one of the cleverest of the season's features and though "Husbands and Lovers" is perhaps not quite as effective as the other film, it is very bright and much in the same vein.

The outcome of all this is that as soon as he is properly groomed, chiefly through the aid of his wife, manlike, the spouse turns and asks her why she doesn't take more care with her personal appearance. Of course, she hasn't had the chance. The criticism does the work, however—in an unexpected way. HE svelte lines of modern modes are all very well. But there's no resisting colorful pictorial personalities. And when fancy starts roving towards them, they are bound to afford a varied vision in the films. It may be only that of a highly ornamental and queenly headdress such as Agnes Ayres is testing out in an adjoining art photograph. And then again it may fulfill itself in delicately refulgent draperies such as Julanne Johnston wears in "Garragon." But the pictorial impression is there, nevertheless.

This is only natural, too, for gowns and their accessories are about the most effective manner of expressing a personality on the screen. The type suggests the costume, and oftentimes the costume the type. Lois Wilson, for one, looks perfect in her frilled and ruffled hoop-skirt. Every attribute of her personality, even to the the type. Lois Wilson, for one, looks perfect in her frilled and ruffled hoop-skirt. Every attribute of her personality, even to the mold of her features, suggests the retiring, ultra-feminine naivete of the crinolines. The garb seems to have been the necessary complement to her, rather than the ultra-smart line of the modern fashions. Although of a slightly later period, there is the same flavor in the role which she is now playing in "North of 36" as that which she created in "The Covered Wagon."

In her first starring picture, "Dangerous Money," Bebe Daniels starts out as a simple country girl, but before the film unwinds very far she's cavorting about in Spanish shawls and intricately carved combs, to say nothing of several bizarre evening gowns.

We've come to associate colorful and highly pictorial personalities with Carmel Myers. The distinctiveness of her Semitic beauty and her unusual adaptability in wearing costumes are in a measure responsible for this. As Iras, the Egyptian sorceress, in "Ben Hur." she ought to create a seductress as pronouncedly pictorial as any ever portrayed on the silversheet.

Agnes Ayres adds a new pictorial effect to her personality with a sparkling head-dress.

Oh, yes, that, of course. Surely.
But something even more tremendously intimate and private and exclusive.

Charlie has built a home that is in-deed his castle. Not a crack or corner of that home, not a shelf or cupboard or bathroom device or fireplace brick that Charlie has not personally lev-ingly selected and supervised. Not a shrub in the grounds, not a winding

And for eight solid months now Charlie has been furnishing. No exacting art connoisseur ever paid more minute detail to color schemes, tex-ture and warp of draperies, style, qual-ity and adjustment of furniture. Ac-tually he has bought very little to date.

That home has to be perfect—perfect artistically, emotionally, practically, mentally, soulfully. So rugs, tables, screens, chairs, lamps are selected and adorn those rooms to be lived with for a week or so, to get the feel of them— then back they go to give place to others more fitting, more sympatica.

Furniture on Probation

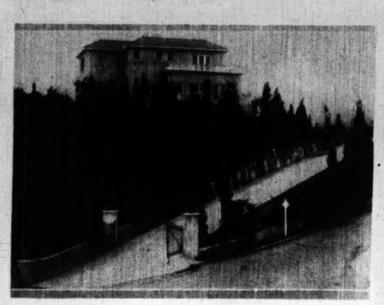

So as Charlie, rather shyly, shows one through the house, he is murmur-ing: "Now this room is practically finished. This is mine. So is this. These things are permanent. But the lamps must go back—they are not quite right." Or again, "This rug is too cold; I must find some warmer tone. The legs of this table are too famining or something—must get feminine or something—must get something more solid for this room. But that divan and those chairs are permanent, and I have decided upon e curtains

Then he laughs. "I believe I could furnish forever on 'approbation'—we've changed this room half a dozen times.

I asked Charlie if he had followed any period in building the house and he grinned. "Sure. Pure Chaplin, 1924." So you will understand it isn't like any other house you ever saw.

You enter an impressive hall, thick, caressing, black and white rug and for-mal hospitality. But you face another door-beyond which only selected so may ever pass. That leads to the hall proper, a lofty, spacious vista right through the house, ending in the distance with a frivolous, gay little tearoom in orange and blues, marked off with a lacy-looking little wrought-iron gate, and leading out to that charmed and preciously exclusive lawn—where cricket is played on Sunday morning, where the bathing parties disport, where perchance Charlie's dream chil-dren (he has decided upon three charming little piquant girls—no rough boys) will gambol.

And leading from this hall, yet a part of it, is a space which simply ooses rich comfort. Lofty ceiling, immense fireplace with a snoogy fender seat, rich velvet draperies, huge soft downy divans, large careasing down pillows, lights in exactly the right places,

Built-in "Magic"

A precious piece of tapestry on a far wall conceals a projection appar-atus. Behind it a perfectly fitted lab-oratory for film showing. Charlie, with boyish impishness, slips into it, touches a lever, and, at the far end of the room, the ceiling slowly descends-and behold, a silver sheet all ready for the picture show! Perfect mechanism.

"This room," says Charlie, beaming,
"is permanent. This is finished."

The stately yet curiously serene and conversational dining-room is finished,

MALIFORNIA, STANFORD AND U.S.C PRESENT THEIR CASE

Officials of the Three Institutions Involved in Football War Tell Why the Action Was Taken and What They Think About It

In view of the recent action of the University of California and Stanford University in all athletic relations with the University of Southern California, The Times underto present both sides of the case without comment. The statement from the University California is signed by Joel H. Hildebrand, faculty representative in athletics. The statefrom Stanford and U.S.C. are equally official and, while the names of the authors are med at their request, The Times assures its readers that they occupy positions at the two ions entitling them to speak with equal authority to Mr. Hildebrand. To review for an at after a week of charges and counter-charges and hearings by the eligibility commitd Stanford, California and U.S.C., a bombshell was sprung last Saturday just at the kickof the California-U.S.C. game when newspaper men were handed a joint statement by the ties of the two northern schools cancelling all athletic relations with U.S.C. at the of the present football season. #### HIS CROWN'S IN THE RING

Here's Johnny Adams, the recognized lightweight champion of the Pacific Coast, who will cast his newly acquired title into the ring at the American Legion Hollywood arena next Friday night and defy Tommy Carter to grab it. made it impossible to play the game as scheduled.

The northern institutions have seen fit to say that they do not feel that the best interests of intercollegiate athletics could be served by further athletic contests with teams of the University of Southern California. It has become a matter of common knowledge that over a period of the last four years northern institutions have looked with amazement at the growth of the University of Southern California and its athletic prowess. This has been but the natural growth attendant to the growth of southern California as a community. We could not help our growth any more than the harbor could help the development of its business. We have had intimations from time to time that northern institutions felt they had everything to lose and mothing to gain in playing us and would welcome opportunities to cancel relations. They have looked in vain for definite reasons to cancel such games. The University of Southern California has lived up to every athletic agreement and contract into which it has entered. It stands willing to do that in the future.

Difficulties have arisen by virtue of athletic contests in all institutions of the Pacific Coast Conference, but there is a mean's provided in the conference and in the triangular agreement for the settlement of those disputes.

To break an agreement simply because there have been settled appears to be a very weak excuse. To break that agreement without notice fell into a clinch and apparently ply because there have been misunderstandings which have been settled appears to be a very weak excuse. To break that agreement without notice in the middle of a football season and to break it dramatically at the opening of an intercollegiate contest are all things which right-thinking people find hard to condone. There have been suggestions that an arbitration board should be appointed or that a referee should intervene. We will do anything in this matter which will permit the public to have all facts in the case. We do not feel that high-sounding resolutions get us anywhere. That if we are not going to have this State disrupted with sectional feeling again, it will be necessary to bring the northern colleges to the realization of the rashness of their act. I understand that this act was instituted by undergraduates. We hope that is true. It would be hard to believe that mature educators or members of boards of trustees would have sanctioned such a movement, either as to the method by which it was handled or the thing itself. They were evidently afraid to announce this before the game

OBSERVATIONS BILL HENRY

Far be it from a nonpartisan newspaper to become in-volved in as bitter a feud as the triangular row between U.S.C., Stanford and Califor-

U.S.C., Stanford and California has become. Heaven forbid. It's their war, and aside from the fact that the football public which has contributed heavily to athletics at all three schools, naturally suffers through the cancellation of games, it's none of our particular business.

But it is a very bad thing for college athletics to have such wars. If one school charges another with lack of morals in the matter of elgibility, it unfortunately gives the public a suspicion that if things are that rotten at one school they probably are in somewhat the same condition at all schools. Therefore, college athletics as a whole get a smack in the eye.

With the action of Stanford

With the action of Stanford and California in cutting off all athletic relations with U.S.C., we have no quarrel. They have a perfect right to play with anybody they please and to refuse to play with anybody they please and to refuse to play with anybody they please. If they feel toward U.S.C. as they manifestly do, their action was the only possible means of expressing themselves.

Neither have we any quarrel with the action of U.S.C. in calling off the game scheduled for next Saturday with Stanford. That was the only thing that U.S.C. could do under the circumstances. It is a cinch that if the boot had been on the other foot and the Trojans had cut Stanford off their calling list, Stanford would have done just as U.S.C. did.

We do have a distinct quarrel with the manner in which the ultimatum was delivered. Either it should have been delivered in time to call off the U.S.C.-California game at Berkeley last Saturday or else it should not have been delivered until the U.S.C.-California for the U.S.C.-California for the U.S.C.-California for the U.S.C.-California game was unsportsmanlike.

There was, of course, a real reason for making the announcement at that time. California expected to be licked and did not wish to be placed in the position of having to explain that they were not to be broken until the end of the football season, then the announcement should not have been inade until that time.

Local football fans won't have to go without their usual Saturday afternoon game after all. There is already much interest in the coming of the St. Mary's team. The northerners are coached by "Slip" Madigan, former Notro Dame player. Madigan naturally uses the Rockne system and to date his athletes have made a mighty fine showing. Opening the season with a 48-to-0 victory over the Mare Island Marines the Saints next met the Golden Bears and lost, 17 to 7, scoring another touchdown that was not allowed and which nonpartisan rocters said was legitimately earned. The Agnetic of existing the season of existing the season of the Club took a 20-to-0 drubbing. Last Saturday Madigan's men morth and surprised the Multinomah Club by handing them the goose-egg end of a 14-to-0 count.

Madigan has several stars of the first, water on his team. One is "Ducky" Grant, a fast and clusive halfback, who scored the disallowed touchdown against California. Grant does the kicking and the passing in addition to carrying a large share of the straight football attack. Capt. Red Strater, although light, is one of the hardest-hitting fullbacks on the Pacific Coast. Hungerford and Corrigan are big linesmen.

Arrangements for the game were completed via the long-distance telephone after the Trojan athletic council had voted to play some team Saturday. Gwynn Wilson, graduate manager, talked to Louis LeFevre, graduate manager of St. Mary's, and the deal was closed.

The Cardinals felt that it was not fair to anybody to make the announcement until the actual moment of breaking the negotiations had arrived. California, however, precipitated the affair and the Cardinals, sympathizing with the Bears' stand and seeing the necessity of settling the question by concerted action, joined in.

California's action was not only unjust to U.S.C., but to Stanford. It enabled the Bears to get what money came from meeting the Trojans and at the same time it made it practically impossible for Stanford to profit from the game with U.S.C. as it was evident that the Trojans would refuse to play under the circumstances. The Bears protected themselves but they didn't protect stanford.

Ferhaps that is one of the reasons why Stanford is to play Utah in the Berkeley Stadium this coming Saturday. The Cards have always had difficulty in getting San Franciscans down to Palo Alto for anything short of the annual California-Stanford game. By playing Utah at the big

The fact that Notre Dame had outclassed both the West Point and Princeton teams last month was referred to as conclusive proof of Rockne's skill as a gridfron tutor.

"Notre Dame's football elevens are bound to be rated among the best so long as Rockne fills the duties as head coach. His contract will not expire for several years and already he is drilling secondstring players to succeed sensational stars as Layden, Crowley, Donmiller, Walsh and others who have few equals or superiors in the game this season.

"According to reliable informatio in New Haven, Yale is determined to play Notre Dame either in 1925 or 1926. To make room for Rockne it might be necessary to drop Dormouth with whom Yale played a draw two weeks ago last Saturday. The annual game with Brown could not be canceled in view of Yale, supposed agreement to open the Bruins new stadium in Providence in 1925.

"There has been some talk at Princeton of severing relations with Notre Dame in order to make room for Dartmouth on-the Tigers' schedule for next year. If such a move should be made by Old Nassau Rockne's eleven would have an open date in October which could be given to Yale. Manual Arts and Franklin Football Teams to Battle at Coliseum Friday Manual Arts and Franklin High School football teams will meet at the Coliseum Friday rather than at Manual Arts, as originally scheduled. The announcement was made yesterday by Manager Larry Houston of Manual Arts. Polytochnic and Jefferson were originally slated to meet at the big Coliseum. Then it was decided to more the game to Washington Park, so that the turf would be in shape for the U.S.C.-Stanford grid battle Saturday. However, with the news of the cancelling of that game by the Trojan intelligence staff, Manager Houston, who is a hustling and energetic young man, hurried over to Manager Ralph Chick at the Coliseum and secured the big bowl for the Purple and Blue clash. So now Manual and Franklin are definitely slated to clash on the spot where Stanford and U.S.C. won't.

Despite the fact that Franklin has lost two of its three games, Coach Sid Foster isn't figuring on anything easy day after tomorrow. The Artisans are slightly bruised up as a result of their clash with the Lincoln steamroller last week, but are still able to scamper around at a great pace when the occasion demands. None of the Toilers will be out of the game. Coach Sam Tennison's outfit had a taste of victory last week, winning over Jefferson, and would like to repeat. Unless a miracle happens, they aren't likely to, however.

"If this had been done, Commissioner Landis could not be confronted with this court action," fronted with this court action, President Johnson said.

Lines, colors, and fitments played their part in luring spectators into the exhibits for a closer inspection of the cars on displayed. M. But if the deal is made it will be as proposed by the New York management and, incidentally, if Shocker does come back to the Yankees, it will be one of the very few changes made in the line-up of the Huggins troup for next season.

Huggins troup for next sea-son.

Miller Huggins is rusticating at his home in Cincinnati, but he will be in this city before very long to formulate plans preliminary to the American League meeting in this city in December. Huggins still is aft-er that hard-hitting right-handed outfielder he wanted last winter. He still wants a first-class catcher and a short-stop. He could use a pitcher, too. But he has decided to make no frantic efforts to get new blood on the club.

Heavyweight boxing in the Navy is about to stage a sudden comeback after being in the discard for nearly ten years. The approaching series of feet smokers in the Battle Fleet for the all-fleet mat and ring titles finds no less than six heavies, each of whom promises to offer pienty of competition for his adversaries.

The U.S.S. New Mexico is boosting a fast-stepping youngster called Sailor Maley, who has won his last six fights in civilian rings. Three other comers in the heavyweight class are: Zsedik, of the flag-ship California; Joyce of the Pennsylvania, and Leatherneck Walk, a promising boy from the Tennessee. Any of these men have a chance to grab the glory now held by Snyder and Huffman.

The U.S.S. Tennessee, incidentally, seems in a fairway to clean up this season in both wrestling and boxing. They have three cracking good coaches in Lieut. Benny Duke of the wrestling team, and Ensign Bedner and Guner Jordan, who are coaching the leather-pushing squad.

Duke is remembered as for-mer lightweight wrestling champion at Annapolis, while Jordan for years was heavy-weight wrestling champion of the Atlantic Fleet in the ring game. Duke, in his mat stable, has two fleet champions in Honeyout, in the light heavy class, and "Tiny" Bourne, holder of the belt in the heavy class.

Hector, however, will not be in the elimination bouts,

Returning to the fleet yes-terday aboard the new repair ship Medusa was Tom Stevens, the Navy's famed sports ex-pert, who formerly swung his hammock aboard the U.S.S. California. Tom rates the Me-dusa as a good sporting ship and predicts great things for her boxers.

The Medusa has entered a full string of boys for the fleet eliminations, which will be fought out between the units of Train Squadron Two. Here they are: Bantamweight, Harry Sell; featherweight, O'Hara and Mills; lightweight, Biel; welterweight, Nelson; middleweight, Berg and Patton; heavyweight, Jones.

The game scheduled at Trona Field yesterday afternoon between the elevens of the Base Force flagship Procyon and the repair ship bedusa was postponed, due to the lack of training of Coach Harry Holcomb's boys from the Medusa.

Huggins Offers Pitcher Anteine Mourre, former French flying ace and now one of the Waite Hoyt for Former porid's leading racing aces, is the latest entrant for the 250-mile championship classic that is to christen the new Culver City Speedway n Thanksgiving Day.

Mourre made his American rac-ng debut in the last race on the Beverly Bowl last February. In that historic event the Frenchman that historic event the Frenchman wrecked his car after a sensational burst of speed, which ended in a long skid and a crash. He escaped serious injury by a miracle and after his car was repaired went to Indianapolis, where he made an excellent showing in the 500-mile race.

FAST MACHINE

Ernie Olson, former mechanician to the late Jimmy Murphy, and known to be one of the greatest racing mechanics the sport has ever produced, has had charge of the Frenchman's mount and that car is known to be one of the fastest racing machines in the world. It is, therefore, not unlikely that Antoine Mourre will be one of the outstanding stars in the contest scheduled for the new Culver City race bowl Thanksgiving Day.

It was just about a year ago that Mourre came to Los Angeles and became interested in the speedway sport. He had driven in many foreign events and for three years had been one of the greatest European stars with a string of road race victories. Soon after his arrival here he negotiated with Harry Miller to build him a car for the speedway in which were incorporated many ideas of his own he picked up in Europe.

CAR WRECKED

CAR WRECKED The Frenchman's mount was completed a few days before the February race at Beverly and he had not had sufficient time to familiarise himself with the course before the day of the race. He drove a sensational race, however, until he was wrecked, but since then he has developed into an excellent pilot and has made a host of friends around the entire speedway circuit.

of friends around the entire speed-way circuit.

After winning a third place in one of the eastern championship events, Mourre won the recogni-tion of his fellow-speed kings and today he is not only popular with the race fans, but the other drivers as well. Mourre is a real sports-man and his ability as a driver makes him doubly popular, not only with his own countrymen, but with the race followers of every nationality.

MEETS MISHAPS

On two occasions besides the accident at Beverly, Mourre has met with misfortune, otherwise he might be dangerously close to the top in the championship running. At Indianapolis he had to go to the inside wall to avoid crashing into Jules Ellingboe. This happened in the fird lap of the great 500-mile speed battle and it cost the Frenchman seven minutes at his pit as a wheel was damaged and the threads battered up so that it took seven minutes to make the change.

In the recent race at Fresno, Mourre was up among the leaders when a timber torn up from the track went through the crank case and drained the oil. Before Antoine could bring his speeding car to a stop half the bearings in the motor were burned out and he was forced to retire from the contest. The car, however, has been repaired and is now ready for the Thanksgiving Day event, where Mourre will be called upon to defend his reputation against some of the greatest drivers ever developed.

The matter of whether a uniform middy blouse and skirt should be worn or not by girl students of the school has agitated the students for the past year. It was finally agreed that it should be put to a vote of the student body and if a two-thirds vote obtained for either side the matter would be settled. The uniform is to be a white middy with blue collar and cuffs and a navy blue pleated skirt.

What is your _____ impression of Alaska?

EVERYBODY has some im-Pression of Alaska. Some think of gold. Some think of now, Some think of coal. Some think of lovely girls with Indian nurses, of House Peters, blue revolvers, dog sleds, and mount-

Most of these impressions are confused and inaccurate.

It doesn't hurt you to have cople uncertain about Alaska. But it doesn't do you any good to have people as hazy about your business as they are about Uncle Sam's great northwest

The way to get people to them the same thing.

If you knew the forty different ideas that forty different prospective customers probably have about your firm and your goods, you would drag a printer out of bed to help you set them

You would, if you knew the printer could do it. The printer can. It was printing that taught you the multiplication table. This same force that taught you that six times six is thirty-six can teach your customers and prospects the right answer to questions that come up about ou, your firm, your goods, and your work.

Direct advertising is not a thing to do because you have to, or because someone has told you that it pays. It is something to do with the definite purpose of getting ideas that are in your mind into the minds of people you want to sell to.

Talk to your printer about what you are trying to do. Talk about what you want to say and the best way to say it.

Use booklets, folders, illustrated letters, house organs, broadsides as a way to say something. You can say anything with ink and paper. Say the right thing and say it to the right people.

The simple way to prepare effective direct advertising is described in a series of books published by S. D. Warren Company. These books are known as the "More Business Series." You can obtain them as they are issued, wishout cost to you, from any distributer of Warren's Standard Printing Paners.

Slightly browned, medium, or done to a crisp dark brown? Yet the actual toast-taste is the same either way.

But it's a matter of degree, of personal liking. You have your taste in toast and your toast is done that way.

Samewith M.J.B Coffee, You can have it strong or mild or in-between. The rich, smooth favor of M-J-B will always be the same. But the exact degree, the right amount of coffee-strength, depends on you.

The M-J-B taste-finding chart was created for this very purpose to help you find your taste in coffee. You can get this chart, free, at your grocer's or direct from M. J. Brandenstein

Among the delightful affairs of the week was the mah jongs luncheon given by Mrs. F. B. Phlegan of 157 West Forty-first Place Thursday afternoon, when the decorations were carried out in yellow and black, suggestive of Halloween season. The small tables were lovely in decorations of fruit, flowers and other dainty fancies, and, as far as possible, the luncheon was served after the same lines. Those included were Mrs. L. G. ANSWERS TO MOTHERS

TABLE OF FEEDING FOR THE E

Last week I gave you the table for the feeding for the sixth and seventh months. Please remember, mothers, the principle of adding new food to baby's diet is to begin in very small amounts and increase very gradually so that the digestive powers, which are latent, will gradually develop and will not be overtaxed. If baby has not taken any solid foods by the sixth by seventh month, then you will have to begin as for the sixth month, the cereals and vegetables in onehalf level teaspoonful doses and increased one-half level teaspoonful every other day, until the amount stated is taken. Any vegetables that are used by the family can be used: spinach, tomatoes, string beans, carrots, cauliflower, and so forth. Spinach, because it is so high in iron, had better be given two or three times a week. Vegetables should be strained until baby's chewing teeth are in (from the age of 12 to 16 months.)

EIGHTH MONTH TABLE OF FEEDING FOR THE EIGHTH MONTH,

EIGHTH MONTH 6 a.m.—Nursing or bottle.

9 a.m.—Orange juice, two three tablespoonfuls or more.

10 a.m.—Breast or bottle.
ceded by strained cereal, three four lavel tablespoonfuls. Piece dry toast to nibble on.

2 p.m.—Nursing or bottle.

It is advisable to begin at the second or third month to give a baby one bottle feeding a day This gives the mother a needed in-terval for rest and recreation and accustoms the baby to the bottle so in case he has to be weaned sud-denly, it will not be so difficult.

He was still whimpering when the mother weasel reappeared. She did not rush him, now that her young one was safe. She approached more cautiously, and the cub had full opportunity to observe her lean, snake-like body, and her head, erect, eager and snake-like itself. Her sharp, menacing cry sent the hair bristling along his back, and he snarled warningly at her. She came closer and closer. There was a leap, switter than his unpracticed sight, and the lean, yellow body disappeared for a moment out of the field of his vision. The next moment she was at his ment out of the field of his vision. The next moment she was at his throat, her teethe buried in his hair and flesh.

At first he snarled and tried to fight, but he was very young, and this was only his first day in the world, and his snarl became a whimper, his fight a struggle to escape. The weasel never relaxed her hold. She hung on, striving to preas down with her teeth to the great vein where his life-blood bubbled. The weasel was a drinker of blood, and it was ever hen preference to drink from the throat of life itself.

The gray cub would have died, erence to drink from the throat of life itself.

The gray cub would have died, and there would have been no story to write about him, had not the she-wolf come bounding through the bushes. The weasel let go the cub and flashed at the she-wolf after throat missing, but getting a hold on the jaw instead. The she-wolf lirted her head like the snap of a whip, breaking the weasel's hold and flinging it high in the air. And, still in the air, the she-wolf's jaws closed on the lean, yellow body, and the weasel knew death between the crunching teeth.

The cub experienced another access of affection on the part of his mother. Her joy at finding him seemed greater even than his joy at being found. She nozzled him and caressed him and licked the cuts made in him by the weasel's teeth. Then, between them, mother and cub, they ate the blood-drinker, and after that went back to the cave and slept.

It is in the Fox fold that Mr. Hale will begin his directorial labors, and he has been assigned to make Shirley Mason shine as star of "The Scarlet Heneymoon." This will be the first of a series of pictures for which Mr. Hale will be responsible to Mr. Fox.

The celebrated film bad man is now appearing, possibly for the last time before the camera, as Tom King in the current Tom Mix picture, "Dick Turpin," directed by Jack Blystone.

Egypt, Peru and South Africa will then furnish atmospheric backgrounds for Carewe's productions. In the meantime, Mr. Carewe will film "My Son," a current stage success in New York, as his next picture for First National. Negotiations are being conducted between Carewe and a noted actress for the leading role, her name being withheld pending contractual arrangements. Finis Fox is preparing the continuity of "My Son," and John D. Schulze has been brought from New York to stage the settings and backgrounds. Los escrutinios, ain incompletos, indican que la planilla presidencial republicana ha obtenido el triunfo en la nación por gran mayoría de votos electorales. Por lo que en estos momentos puede preverse, no menos de 300 votos, de los 531 que corresponden al colegio electoral, han sido ganados por el presidente y su compañero de postulación.

Tanta en el voto popular, come en el electoral, vienen corriendo en segundo término Davis y Bryan, según lo computado hasta hoy. Desde las primeras cifras pudo verse que iba a ser completa la derrota de la pianilla democrática. Al ir esta edición a la prensa, no ha pedido de terminarse todavis si Davis ha ganado en algún Estado, fuera de los del sur y de la frontera.

La Follette y Wheeler vienen en tercer lugar, y muy atrás, pues su voto popular quedó muy por debajo de lo que se esperaban, al este del Mississippi. Como los resultados del oeste están aún muy incompletos, no es posible decirpor el momento si hubo para el tercer partido siquiera un puñado escaso de votos electorales.

Por lo que puede verso, Coolidge se llevó de calle los estados septentrionales que queda nal este del Mississippi, excepto el estado de La Follette, que es Wisconsin, y aun en este, los primeros computos revelaron tal número de votos en favor del actual presidente, que se puso en duda la victoria de La Follette, que es Wisconsin, y aun en este, los primeros computos revelaron tal número de votos en favor del actual presidente, que se puso en duda la victoria de La Follette, que es Wisconsin, y aun en este, los primeros computos revelaron tal número de votos en favor del actual presidente, que se puso en duda la victoria de La Follette en le referido estado.

En la Nueva Inglaterra hubo, como se prevefa, un verdadero lurte de votos en pro de Coolidge y Dawes. Los candidatos democráticos ni se mencionaron por ahí, y el nombre de La Follette es borro de la manoria.

Nueva York, de cuerpo entero, se fue hacia Coolidge. Por los primeros computos, puede preverse que habra allí una pluralidad de cerca de 1,000,000 de votos en favor de planilla republicana. El Coronel Theodore Roosevelt, candidato republicano para gobernador llegó al Bronx a paso de vals, portador de una enorme pluralidad, y allí se le reunió el gobernador Al Smith con otra pluralidad de gran tamaño ganada en la ciudad de Nueva Tork; pero los peritos aún no dictamiran quién de los dos ha triunfado.

It doesn't pay to buy "seconds"

Home builders are not investing wisely when, for the sake of a few dollars' saving on the first cost, they permit the installation of "seconds" in plumbing fixtures. They pay less, but they get less than they pay for.

The enamel of the "bargain" bath-tub, lavatory or kitchen sink may be chipped in places, badly warped or off color. The toilet may be warped and otherwise defective.

A great deal of money is paid out each year for low-grade or "second" fixtures that are not worth half what they cost their owners. And much more is wasted every year in efforts to keep these defective units in working order.

Sooner or later the entire installation has to be ripped out and new fixtures put in. The final cost is much greater than if reliable materials had been used in the first place.

The only sure way of getting satisfactory equipment is to call in a plumbing contractor you can trust, one who handles trade-marked products. Tell him how much you can afford to spend, and let him help you to select the fixtures which will meet your needs and not exceed your building budget.

Such a contractor knows his business. His prices are fair. His materials and his work are always dependable.

Crane fixtures and fittings, sold and installed only by competent contractors, will give you a lifetime of trouble-free service and cost you less in the long run.

Visit the Crane Exhibit Rooms and see how wide is the range of styles at prices within reach of all.

We should be very glad to see those residing along the Santa Fe Lines become much more generally interested in its stock although both the common and preferred shares give a smaller return than many other investments promise. The high price is a deserved tribute to the property. Every investor in the Southwest might well buy one or more shares in the Santa Fe.

KILLS MONOTONY

"Aside from the scientific work in which they may be engaged, there is little in such a situation offering a subject for discussion and the monotony of the daily routine becomes almost unbearable. With the radio, howevar, the explorers were able to keep' informed on everything taking place in the outside world, which kept them in a good humor all the time.

"Dr. MacMillan stated that last Christmas Eve, when the party was within twelve degrees of the North Pole, they were able to pick up Chicago and that among the measages transmitted from that city over the air was one from Dr. MacMillan's sister, who sent her brother a Christmas greeting. The doctor said he recognized his sister's voice perfectly and the effect of this communication and others received on this occasion was one no member of the expedition would ever forget."

Mr. Roemer stated that Dr. MacMillan's planning another expedition into the Arctic, which will start next June. On this trip, the explorers will carry both high and low-wave-transmitting and receiving radio sets.

"The low-wave transmitting set will enable all the amateurs in the country to pick up messages from the Far North," said Mr. Roemer. "Few amateur sets are equipped to receive high-wave transmission, which was the only type the explorer trip."

"Eleanor," according to the complaint, did not hesitate to mix finance with romance, for one of the letters contained an appeal for a two-weeks' loan of $10 sand-
